

About Cyprus - Climate

- Cyprus is the warmest island in the Mediterranean
 - The mean daily temperature in July and August ranges between 29°C on the central plain to 22°C on the Troodos mountains, while the average maximum temperature for these months ranges between 36°C and 27°C respectively.
- Winters are mild and the island, on average, enjoys more than 300 days of sunshine every year, and

Beach at Ayia Napa, Famagusta

we are Home4U

the rainy season is confined to the period between November and March.

- Snow occurs rarely in the lowland and on the northern range of Pentadaktylos but falls every winter on ground above 1.000 meters on the Troodos range, usually occurring by the first week in December and ending by the middle of April.

Troodos in winter

we are Home4U